

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism Rules

Students must consult the University Handbook on academic integrity and plagiarism. For quick reference, I provide these simple rules:

1. A student could be considered in violation of academic integrity if he or she,
 - represents the work of others as his or her own,
 - obtains assistance in any academic work from another individual in a situation in which the student is expected to perform independently,
 - gives assistance to another individual in a situation in which that individual is expected to perform independently, and
 - offers false data in support of findings and conclusions.
2. By submitting work for evaluation or to meet a requirement, a student is seen as assurance that the work is the result of the student's own thought and study, produced without assistance, and stated in that student's own words, except as quotation marks, references, or footnotes acknowledge the use of other sources. Submission of work used previously must first be approved by the instructor.
3. By submitting a paper, a student is agreeing that he or she have read the above guidelines and agree to the terms and conditions as stated.
